

Project Plan Copy - Sprint 4

Nick Dossin:

- Synthesize data by identifying patterns, trends, and key insights
- Highlight common themes and discrepancies
- Create a persona draft

Ryan McBride:

- Create an interview script
- Develop structured and open-ended questions
- Design an online survey

Abdullahi Abdullahi:

- Schedule interviews one-on-one or in groups at proper times
- Confirm participation and ensure necessary materials in advance
- Collect data

Lauren Reyes:

- Gather contacts from clients
- Obtain a list of stakeholders and relevant participants
- Contact possible interviews about the meeting

Project Plan

Steps for contextual inquiry:

- Gather contacts from the clients
 - Obtain a list of stakeholders and relevant participants
- Contact possible interviews about meeting
 - Reach out via email or phone to schedule an interview
 - Explain the purpose of the interview and the expected outcomes
- Create interview script
 - Develop structured and open-ended questions
 - Tailor questions to different stakeholders' roles and expertise
- Create survey questions
 - Design online surveys with clear and concise questions
 - Ensure a mix of multiple-choice and open-ended questions
- Schedule interviews
 - Set up one-on-one or group interviews at convenient times
 - Confirm participation and necessary materials in advance
- Send out surveys
 - Distribute surveys via email or online platforms (Google Forms)

- Set deadlines for responses and send reminds as needed
- Collect data
 - Gather responses from surveys and interviews
 - Organize data in a structured format for analysis
- Synthesized data
 - Identify patterns, trends, and key insights
 - Highlight common themes and discrepancies
- Create a persona draft
 - Develop user personas based on gathered data
 - Include demographics, goals, challenges, and behavioral patterns

This week (4/14), we plan to incorporate the information we gained from our client when we met with them about our survey and interview questions. We spent a lot of time revising them and discussing the changes that need to be made to better reflect the insights that our client expects us to gain from our data gathering. We are going to meet again with our client this week to review changes we have made to our questions and make any additional changes. Depending on how our next client meeting goes, we will set a course to start the activities of scheduling interviews and posting the surveys so we can start moving forward on the development of our user personas.